Visit THE HARLEY-DAVIDSON MUSEUM in Milwaukee

Several Founding Members of the National Academy of Motorcycle Injury Lawyers met up in Milwaukee, Wisconsin at the Harley-Davidson Museum. The museum tour featured historical photos and hundreds of motorcycles that Harley-Davidson has made since 1903.

We saw a full-sized bike made from Legos, another that was ALL chrome, and a chopper signed by over 10,000 employees.

AC/DC. GRIM REAPER. PIRATES. KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

What do these things have in common? They are all themes for custom airbrushed motorcycles designed by Mike Lavallee at KillerPaint.com.

Renowned for his TRUE FIRE™ airbrush technique, Mike Lavallee traces his roots back to his first motorcycle rally in Laconia, New Hampshire. It would become a weekend event that would permanently change his life.

Sunny California was set ablaze, when Mike's signature flame jobs burst onto the scene. His collaborations with Chip Foote of Foote Design, and close friendship with Jesse James of West Coast Choppers landed Mike his first spot on television. He has appeared as a guest artist on The Discovery Channel's, "Monster Garage," as well as TLC's popular "Overhaulin'" and "RIDES".

My favorite design is an AC/DC tribute that Mike airbrushed on a Harley Davidson. One side of the gas tank features "Rock N Roll Train," while the other side showcases the cover of the "Highway to Hell" album, with the band below the burning highway sign. Additional flames tie the images from the top and sides of the tank into a single flowing piece.

Mike has poured over 30 years of his life into his artwork, making it his primary focus, second to none. It's been a journey from one end of the country to another, travelling the motorcycle circuit as an artist until choosing to settle in the Pacific Northwest. See Mike's creations online at www.KillerPaint.com or stop by his airbrush studio in Snohomish, Washington.

FLAME ON! Now You Can Create Your Own...

We received a tremendous response to the airbrush designs in last month's newsletter. So, we figured you would want to see how to do it yourself. Look for "TRUE FIRE Airbrush" on Amazon and you'll find How-To DVDs and airbrush templates for adding killer flames and fiery effects to your own gas tank or helmet.

REVIEW: Hi-Tech Headset For Group Rides

If you want to communicate easily with everyone on your next group ride, look no further than the PackTalk Bold from Cardo Systems. This state-of-the-art device is much more than a wireless intercom. It lets you stay connected with a small group, a pack of up to fifteen people, or simply another rider.

High quality, long distance communication is made possible with advanced DMC mesh technology. DMC connects a group in a web, so riders can come and go, disconnecting and reconnecting at any time, without affecting the rest of the group. This is far superior to a Bluetooth "daisy chain" that breaks apart the whole group with one lost connection.

Other features include voice-activation for hands-free operation, full GPS and phone connectivity, a killer app, smart radio, JBL audio system, and Bluetooth to pair with older helmet communicators. The device is waterproof and can be charged while you ride. Two thumbs up for a highly functional headset that really steps up the game. Learn more at: www.CardoSystems.com/shop/packtalk-bold.

Ready for a THRILL RIDE?

An entire building at the Harley-Davidson Museum in Milwaukee is devoted to Daredevils. It was a thrill to see the Globe of Death (a steel ball cage for motorcycle stunt riders) and Evel Knievel's infamous ramp-to-ramp Snake River Canyon jump. Thursday is Bike Night at the Iron Horse Hotel, with hundreds of custom rides, and a huge crowd watching bikers doing burnouts and flying through flaming ramps.
