"I don't want to sue the person who caused the accident."

It's a common misconception that you start by suing the at fault driver. We are in the business of making sure our clients get justice while making sure insurance companies are held accountable. Insurance companies will do whatever they can to make you go away with the smallest settlement possible.

Often those who have been hurt in an auto accident say they don't call an attorney because they don't want to sue the at fault driver. The truth is - we work to make sure that insurance companies are held accountable for the actions of their insured (the at fault driver). Time and time again we see insurance companies looking to give victims the smallest possible settlement hoping you don't receive the medical care you need and won't speak to an attorney. An experienced attorney like Dianne Sawaya won't let them get away with a low settlement to make you go away. You focus on healing, let us do the fighting.

Mile High Must Do! Holiday Festivities Planned for 2021

After surviving the food and festivities of Thanksgiving we start thinking about the upcoming festivities planned in December. One very good way to get into the holiday spirit this year is by attending the Grand Illumination on the Friday after Thanksgiving, which lights up the city from Union Station to the City & County Building. After watching the holiday lights ceremony, you can meet Santa, grab a hot chocolate and enjoy live carolers too!

The Downtown Denver Grand Illumination is on Friday, November 27. Festivities including musical entertainment around Civic Center Park start at 6 p.m. with the lights turned on at 6:45 p.m. More than three million lights will illuminate the City and County Building, the 16th Street Mall, Skyline Park, the D&F Clock Tower, 14th Street, Larimer Square, and there's a 40-foot-tall outdoor Christmas tree, featuring more than 7,000 holiday lights. If you can't be there for the Grand Illumination ceremony, you can still view the lights, which stay on until the end of December. Click for more information.

November's FREE Legal Advice

Can Your Insurance Premiums go up for using your MedPay or Underinsured Motorist coverage?

If you have Underinsured Motorist coverage and/or MedPay on your auto insurance policy, then you have chosen to have additional coverage if someone hurts you in a car accident.

- Premiums cannot be increased for using MedPay
- Premiums cannot be increased for using uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage

The answer is NO! According to statute CCR 702-5:5-2-12 titled “Concerning Automobile Insurance Consumer Protections,” you cannot be penalized (like an increased premium) for using your own coverage if you are not at fault.
